If TURF was so important for High School and Collegiate level sports, why do the highest paid athletes in the country STILL make history everyday on GRASS Athletic Fields?

A simple internet search will tell you this:

"FIFA has approved some brands of artificial turf as being suitable for official football play in that they behave enough like real grass that the characteristics of play are not changed. Right now, 17 of the 31 NFL stadiums have real grass."

Or this:

"Since 2010, all but two major league ballparks have been covered with "natural" grass – natural is within quotes as the real grass seen is often very scientifically engineered – so that means an all-time high 28 ballparks are blanketed by the surface of choice for just about all players and fans."
