Dear Alex,

Sorry for the late response.

The factory in Amsterdam, The Netherlands is up and running.

We could accept fields from US but to be honest I think that moving the fields across the globe make no sense (from the environmental point of view).

If we can help you please let me know.

Best regards,

Eric van Roekel

Onderwerp: Question regarding GBN AGR turf recycling facility

Hi Erik,

I hope this message finds you well. I'm a planner at the Martha's Vineyard Commission in Massachusetts, United States, and I am helping review a proposed athletic field project in the town of Oak Bluffs. We were informed by the developer that the GBN AGR turf recycling facility in the Netherlands opened this year, but we also heard that the facility will not be accepting turf materials from farther than 250km away. Can you please confirm whether the facility is in fact open, and if it will be accepting materials from the US? This is an important aspect of the Oak Bluffs plan that we would like to be clear about.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,

Alex
